The screenshot shows the Kaspersky Internet Security 2012 application window. At the top, there's a blue header bar with the Kaspersky logo, the text "INTERNET SECURITY 2012", and standard window controls (minimize, maximize, close). Below the header, a toolbar has "Cloud protection" selected. On the right, there are "Reports" and "Settings" buttons, and a prominent "Buy Now!" button. The main content area features a large red monitor icon with a white "X" on its screen, indicating a problem. To the right of the icon, the text "License issue" is displayed. Below this, a bulleted list shows three green checkmarks: "Threats: none", "Protection components: main enabled", and "Databases: have not been updated for a long time". A fourth item, "License: not available", is preceded by a red X and is enclosed in a red rectangular box. A red arrow points from this box down to a red-bordered input field at the bottom of the window. This input field contains the placeholder text "Insert your activation code here". Along the bottom of the window, there are icons for "Scan", "Update", "Parental Control", and "Tools", each with a small description below it. At the very bottom, there are links for "Help", "Support", and "My Kaspersky Account".
